

It has been 50 years!

Thank you to all our Customers, Reference Labs, Staff and Directors (past and present)

as ICL Proudly Celebrates 50 Years!

For 50 years, In-Common Laboratories (ICL) has been saving clients time and money by providing high quality test analysis, results and consultation. ICL simplifies the practice of ordering tests, tracking samples and providing test results to a consolidated report and invoice.

While we've seen many changes in that half-century, our dedication to supporting the health system and healthcare with first-class laboratory support services has never changed.

In-Common Laboratories, formerly Hospitals In-Common Laboratory Inc. (HICL), was established in Canada's centennial year, 1967. In 1975, HICL was incorporated as a Board led, not-for-profit Ontario corporation. In 2015, HICL was granted Canadian corporation status as a not-for-profit corporation with extra-provincial registrations in all Canadian provinces and territories. HICL was rebranded under the business name of In-Common Laboratories or ICL.

No lab performs every test, every lab has cost pressures and all hospitals need responsive labs to diagnose and monitor patients and provide information for treatment decisions. ICL provides a highly valued and vital consolidating function. Over the past four years, we have invested in significant projects as we further modernized, to assure our clients of patient safety and the utmost in client care to the most current standards.

In 2015, ICL expanded its role as industry-consolidator to include naturopathic doctors in an "end to end" quality-based referral system of kit management, orders and results. In 2017, ICL is opening licensed, private-pay, specimen collection services.

We hope that you, with ICL, will continue to strongly advocate professionally and politically for Laboratory Medicine.
